Build your leadership skills and clinical expertise in the field of Marriage and Family Therapy.

Marriage and Family Therapists (MFTs) are helping families become healthier and stronger. As one of the fastest-growing mental health professions nationwide, MFTs can be found in almost every sector and industry, from the medical field to the military. There is consistent and mounting evidence for the efficacy of MFT approaches and interventions in treating the full range of mental and emotional disorders, various health problems, and relationship concerns.

Chaminade's online Doctorate in Marriage and Family Therapy program is designed to take your skills as a master's level clinician even further and prepare you for leadership roles and careers as private practitioners, agency administrators, clinical supervisors, program developers, evaluators, faculty in institutions of higher education, and expert clinicians. Our aim is to prepare practitioners and leaders who think systemically, promote cultural humility and socially just-informed practices and programs, transfer knowledge to practice and policy, evaluate and practice evidence-informed couple and family therapy approaches, and actively contribute to the ongoing development of the profession in Hawai'i.

The DMFT program is designed for clinically active professionals who are wanting to make a difference in their practice and system. In the program you'll attend classes virtually with your cohort, building strong relationships and expanding your clinical knowledge and MFT identity.
